Communion, the Remedy For Our Sadness

The absolute remedy, the ever new and ever effective remedy which sadness cannot withstand, is Communion. Our Lord has made Himself the Eucharist and enters into us to give direct combat to our sadness. And I state as a principle that no soul that truly desires and hungers to receive Jesus will remain sorrowful in Communion. Afterwards, sadness may return, because it is inherent in our exiled state; and the more speedily we fall back on ourselves and cease to dwell in the thought of our Lord's goodness, the more quickly it will return; but never at the moment our Lord enters into us. Communion is a feast at which Jesus celebrates His nuptials with the faithful soul; would you have weeping at such a moment? I appeal also to your personal experience: whenever you were sorrowful before Communion in spite of a good confession, did you not feel joy reborn again in your heart as soon as our Lord made His entrance there?

Was not Zacheus, the publican, overcome with joy at receiving Jesus? Yet he had great reason to be sad on account of the plundering of which people openly accused him.

The two disciples of Emmaus were sorrowful along the way, even though our Lord accompanied them, spoke to them, and taught them. But after the Breaking of the Bread, they were filled with joy; their hearts overflowed with gladness, and notwithstanding that it was night, that the way was long, and that they were already fatigued, they hurried back to Jerusalem to make known their happiness and share it with the Apostles.

Now, here is a sinner who has committed every kind of crime. He confesses; his wounds are bound up, and his convalescence begins. He feels a constant sadness; his conversion has made him more sensitive, and he bewails now what before he did not even feel: the sorrow he has caused to God. The more sincere and intelligent his conversion is, the deeper is his sorrow. "I have sinned so greatly against God, Who is so good!" he says to himself. If he is left to himself, sorrow will overwhelm him, and the devil will drive him to despair. But have him go to Communion; let him but feel God's goodness within him, and joy and peace will spread through his soul. "What!" he will say. "I have received the Bread of angels! Then am I not the friend of God?" His past sins trouble him no more in this moment. Has not our Lord Himself told him that he is forgiven? And how can he doubt His word?

Oh, the joy which Communion gives is the best proof of God's presence in the Eucharist!

Renovation Projects

Dear Parishioners,

Many of you are already aware of the renovation projects we have been planning, but there may be many others who are not. For some time we've been preparing to renovate the kitchen in the gym. Work should begin in the next couple of weeks. We originally began to consider the project when we were informed that the present exhaust system (the hood over the oven) posed a fire hazard. It seemed like a good opportunity to renovate the entire kitchen, well-worn with use. Work should begin in the next couple of weeks. Hopefully it will be completed by the end of September.

Like the kitchen, the gym has served its purpose well for a long time. It's now showing its age—broken and missing tiles, and broken slats on the walls. It, too, is due for an overhaul. We hope to start work on it shortly after the kitchen project has been completed.

Finally, it's been decided to put an iron fence (similar to that which encloses the playing field—although a bit more decorative) around the church parking lot. First of all, it will stand as one more line of security for the church. Secondly, it will prevent people from dumping their trash there during the night, as well as keeping unwanted vehicles from parking there at night. It should also improve the looks of the property. Work may begin at any time.

We're sorry if anyone is inconvenienced while this work is being done. A good opportunity to practice a bit of patience. Hopefully, the results will be well worth whatever sacrifice may be required of us.

Thank you for your continued and generous support in helping to make these projects a reality.

In Prayer,
The Pastor

~ Summer Dress Code ~

Please recall that everyone is expected to dress with modesty and in a way befitting the house of God. Our choice of clothing is an expression of our worship; it may also affect the ability of others to worship. Dress should conceal rather than reveal. There is a sign in the vestibule that gives more details regarding proper dress. It is further expected that modesty in dress be maintained on the church grounds at all times.

We do request that the correction of visitors in this matter be left to the priests or their delegates.
