Prudent Judgment

The first duty of prudence is to help us choose the best means for attaining our final end. Many times the choice is easy, and presents itself spontaneously to a mind accustomed to making judgments and acting in the light of eternity. At other times, however, it is difficult and perplexing, as for example, when it concerns choosing one's vocation or profession, or solving complicated problems in which elements independent of one's own will must be considered. In these cases we must take time to examine everything carefully and to consult prudent, experienced persons; to act hastily would show a want of prudence. In the Gospel, Jesus Himself tells us about the prudent man who "having a mind to build a tower, first sits down and reckons the charges that are necessary, whether he have wherewithal to finish it" (Lk 14,28). The time spent in these examinations and calculations as dictated by prudence is not time wasted. Quite the contrary! When facing serious decisions, we must realize that God Himself often wants us to wait patiently until circumstances clearly manifest His will to us. In this waiting we should give a large place to prayer, begging Our Lord for the light which our own prudence cannot give us. In fact, prudence, even though it is an infused supernatural virtue, is always a virtue exercised by human faculties and, therefore, is affected by human limitations; however, to help it, God has given us a special gift of the Holy Spirit, the gift of counsel, the actuation of which does not depend on us but is obtainable by prayer.

After using all the means suggested by supernatural prudence, we arrive at a decision. Prudence then commands us to put it into effect with courage and diligence, without needless delays on our part and without being discouraged by the difficulties we may meet.

In order that our judgments and choices may be prudent, we must know how to free them from elements which are too subjective, such as our personal attractions and interests, our natural likes and dislikes. Sometimes we can deceive ourselves into thinking that we are judging a situation or deciding to do something solely for the glory of God or for the good of our neighbors, when, in fact, if we examined ourselves thoroughly, we would perhaps see that the motives which prevailed in our judgment or in our deliberations were egoistic and dictated by our own personal interests. Hence, even prudence requires that we cleanse our hearts from all these human motives, and that we practice detachment and renunciation. After Jesus had spoken of the prudence necessary for the man who wished to build a tower, and for the king who was about to make war against another king. He said "So likewise everyone of you that doth not renounce all that he possesseth, cannot by My disciple" (Lk 14,33).

From the Pastor

In 2004, Fr. Berg had a parish crest professionally developed for St. Stephen the First Martyr Parish. But it was only recently that we were able to take a very high-quality scan of the crest. Now that we have a digital copy of it, you should start to see it in use more often.

I do not have even a passing knowledge of heraldry, but I would like to call a few elements of the crest to your attention.

On the dexter side of the shield we find crossed palms of martyrdom and three stones, representing the death of our patron, St. Stephen. On the sinister side we find a host and chalice, representing the Eucharistic sacrifice.

Underneath the shield are the words Caritatis Virtute Subnixus, that is, "Bound by the strength of charity." These are taken from a sermon by Saint Fulgentius, wherein he explains the relationship between Saint Stephen and Saint Paul. Here is the fuller context: "Stephen, therefore, that he might merit to receive the crown of his name, took up charity as his weapon, and through it conquered all. Through the charity of God, he did not yield to the rage of the Jews: and through love of neighbor he interceded for his executioners. Through charity he rebuked their errors, that they might be converted: through charity he prayed for them, lest they be condemned. Bound by the strength of charity, he overcame Saul his cruel torturer: and whom he held on earth as a persecutor, in heaven he merited to claim as comrade."

Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Holy Day of Obligation

Masses will be 7:00 am, 12:15 pm, and 7:00 pm. The 7:00 pm Mass will be offered by our newly arrived priest, Fr. Latimer.

~ Summer Dress Code ~

Please recall that everyone is expected to dress with modesty and in a way befitting the house of God. Our choice of clothing is an expression of our worship; it may also affect the ability of others to worship. Dress should conceal rather than reveal. There is a sign in the vestibule that gives more details regarding proper dress. It is further expected that modesty in dress be maintained on the church grounds at all times.

We do request that the correction of visitors in this matter be left to the priests or their delegates.
