Directions For Thanksgiving

The best model for our [Communion] thanksgiving is Mary receiving the Word in her womb. The most pleasing reception we can make Jesus, and the one best and most rich in graces for us, is to join with His Blessed Mother in adoring Him present in our hearts.

Without doubt, Mary's adoration in this solemn moment began with an act of deepest humility, for her whole being was overcome by the august majesty of the Word, by the choice it had pleased Him to make of her, His lowly handmaid, and by His unspeakable goodness and love for her and for all mankind.

This also must be my first act, my first thought of adoration after Holy Communion. So did Elizabeth receive the Mother of God, who came to her bearing her Savior still hidden in her womb, when she cried out: Unde hoc mihi!—"Whence is this to me," this happiness I so little deserve!

Mary's second act was necessarily an expression of joyous thankfulness for God's inexpressible and infinite goodness toward man; an act of humble gratitude that He had chosen His unworthy but only too happy handmaid for His extraordinary favor. Mary's gratitude is breathed forth in acts of love, in acts of praise and blessing; it exalts the divine goodness.—For gratitude is all that; it is a great and loving outpouring of the heart to the one who gives the benefits. Gratitude is the very heart of love.

The third act of the holy Virgin was an act of devotion, the offering and the gift of herself and all her life to the service of God: Ecce Ancilla Domini. It was an expression of regret at being and having so little, at her powerlessness to serve Him in a manner corresponding to His worth.

She offers herself to serve Him in whatever way He wills, and make every sacrifice He is pleased to demand. Only too happy is she to please Him at this price and respond thus to the love He has shown to men through His Incarnation.

Mary's last act was doubtless one of compassion for poor sinners, for whose salvation the Word became Flesh. She knew how to win His infinite mercy in their behalf; she offered herself to make reparation for them, to do penance for them, in order to obtain their pardon and their return to God.

Oh, if I could but adore the Lord as did His good Mother! Like her, I possess Him in Holy Communion.—O my God, give her, who so adored Thee, to be my true Mother! Let me share her grace and her state of continual adoration to the God she had received in her virginal womb, that heaven of virtue and love!

I will spend this day in union with Mary and, like her, live solely for Jesus present in my heart.
